THE WRONG BOX.

AN INTERESTING AND AFFECTING TALE.

[Few of our readers have not perused the simple but beautiful and affecting story below. And yet, it is worth publishing again, and again—so true is it to the purest and loveliest impulses of our best nature. The heart that does not give a tear to the story of Catharine McInnes, must be stony, cold and unfeeling indeed.]

THE WRONG LETTER BOX.

Amusing incidents often occur by persons mistaking the letter-box of stores and offices in this vicinity. We sometimes find three or four letters in our letter-box, intended for the mails. These we, of course, put on their way.

Standing once at our front window, we observed a young woman, whose face was not visible to us, drop a letter into our box, and on taking it out, we found that she had mistaken our establishment for that of the post office. It was directed to Thos. —— in Ireland, and the inland postage accompanied it. The letter we caused to be sent with some others to the post office, and gave the circumstance no further thought.

Busied some months afterwards in examining the contents of our exchange papers, and inditing such paragraphs as they suggested to us, we did not pay much attention to a gentle rap at the door of our private room, and it was repeated. We then, too anxious to conclude our labors to open to the applicant, bade the one that knocked to "come in," and continued our labors without lifting an eye to the door, which was opened quietly and as quietly closed. We were startled at length with a sweetly modulated voice, inquiring, "is there a letter here for me?"

We at once raised our eyes and saw a female about eighteen years of age—or, as we have of late lost the art of judging closely in these matters, perhaps twenty. It did not make a dimple's difference to her face, and would not, if five more years had been added to them. There was an oval face, with nature's own blush, and a slight projection of the mouth that told of Ireland, even without the softened modulation of voice that belongs to the women of that Island. Neatness was all that could be ascribed to her dress—it deserved that.

Letters are frequently asked for in a newspaper office, in reply to advertisements—so we bade the young woman go to the front office and inquire of the clerks.

She had been there, and there was no one but a boy, who could not give her the information.

So we inquired the name.

"Kitty McInnes: but perhaps it will be Catharine on the letter," said she, "as that is my name."

We looked on the letter-rack in the front office, among the "A. B's," the "X. W's" the "P. Q's," etc., but saw none for Catharine.

Returning, we inquired to what advertisement the letter was to be answered.

"Advertisement—to no advertisement—it would be in answer to my letter."

"And from whom do you expect a letter?"

The young woman looked much confused—but apparently considering the question pertinent, she said, "from Thomas——."

We saw at once that she had, as hundreds before had done, mistaken our office for the post office, and the name given was that upon the letter which we had thrown upon the office seat from our letter-box to that of the post office.

"He has not written, then," said Cathrine, in a low voice, evidently not intended for our ear.

"But—he may have written."

"Then where's the letter?" said she, looking up.

"At the post-office, perhaps."

And we took Catharine by the hand and led her to the door, and pointed out the way to the post-office.

"You will ask at the window," said we, "but as the clerks are young men, you need not tell them from whom you expect the letter."

"Not for the world," said she, looking into our face with a glance that seemed to say there was no harm in telling us.

We must have used less than our usual precision in directing Catharine to the post office, as quite half an hour afterwards, when visiting the place, we saw her at the window, receiving the change and a letter from one of the clerks, and the impatience, shall we say of a woman's love, induced Catharine to break the seal at the door. A glow of pleasure was on the cheek of the happy girl. We would not have given a penny to be informed that was well and was coming in the next packet. We felt anxious to know whether Thomas would come, but the names of such persons rarely appeared among passengers of the Liverpool packets, being commonly included in that compassable line, "and two hundred in the steerage."

So we gave up all hopes of knowing when Thomas would arrive, but concluded that we would see the name with that of Catherine in the marriage list, to which we had determined to keep a steady look.

It was but a short time afterwards that we did indeed see the name of Thomas in the paper. He was one of the passengers in the ship cast away below New York, of whom nearly every soul perished, and Thomas among the rest.

We had never seen Thomas, but had somehow cherished such an interest in his fate, that we felt a severe shock at it its annunciation, and what must have been the feelings of Catharine, with her ardent, sanguine, Irish temperament? Loving deeply, as she must have loved, and hoping ardently, as she must have hoped, what must have been her feelings?

We paused a few weeks afterwards, to mark the young grass shooting, green and thick, in Ronaldson's grave yard, and to see the buds swelling on the branches of the trees that decorate that populous city of the dead, when a funeral, numerously attended, wound slowly round the corner of the street, and passed into the enclosure. It was the funeral of an Irish person—we knew by the numbers that attended—and as the sexton lowered the coffin down into the narrow house, the place appointed for all the living, we saw engraved upon a simple plate, "CATHERINE McINNES."

The story was told. The small sum of money which Catherine had deposited in the savings' fund, to give a little consequence to her marriage festival, had been withdrawn, to give her a "decent burial."

Fanny Kemble Butler.

It has been frequently asserted and contradicted of late, that Mrs. Butler, (late Fanny Kemble,) was about to return to the English stage. After reading the following truthful and sublime lines, but recently from her pen, no one can believe that there is any truth in the rumor that she is about to resume he former profession.

"How sad a thing, and strange, Life is. Oh how can any human being, who looks abroad into the world, and within upon himself, who sees the wondrous mystery of all things, the unbidingness which waits on all matter, the imperfection which clogs all spirits, who notes the sovereignty of change over the inanimate creation of disease, decay, and death over man's body of blindness and delusion over his mind, of sin over his soul, who beholds the frailty of good men, who feels the miserable inconsistency of his own nature; the dust and ashes of which our love, and what we love, is made; the evil that, like an unwholesome corpse, still clings to our good; the sorrow that, like its shadow, still walks behind our joy. Oh! who that sees all this can say that this life is other than sad—most sad! Yet while I write this, God forbid that I should therefore want eyes to see, or sense to feel, the blessings wherewith He has blessed it: the rewards with which He sweetens our task, the flowers wherewith He cheers our journey's road, the many props wherewith He supports our feet in it. Yet of all these the sweetest, the brightest, the strongest, are those which our soul draws from Him, the end of its desire—not those it finds here. And how should not that spirit yearn for its accomplishments! If we seek knowledge here a thousand mists arises between our incapable senses and the truth. How, then, should we not wish to cast away this darkness, and soar to the fountains of all light? If we strive to employ these faculties which, being of our soul, have the strength and enduring of immortality, the objects wherein we expend them here are vague, evanescent, disappointing. How, then, should we not desire to find food for our capacities abiding as themselves? If we long to love—are not the creatures in whom we centre our affections frail, capable of change, perishable, born to decay? How then, should we not look with unutterable yearning for that life where affection is unchangeable—eternal? Surely, if all the hopes, the fears, the aims, the tendings of our soul have their beginnings here, it is most natural, it is most fitting, to turn to that future where they shall be fulfilled."

The Oregon Question.

The debates and rumors, in regard to Oregon, are assuming a strange aspect, and we should not be surprised, if, eventually, it should be ascertained that President Polk, has, in the whole of this affair, been playing a very disingenuous game.

Notwithstanding the hostile sound of many parts of Mr. Polk's Message, it was evident to a reflecting reader, that the President did not anticipate war. None of his confidential friends, we believe, has expressed or intimated an opinion that an actual rupture with Great Britain, on the Oregon question, is likely to occur. And yet Mr. Polk's administration stand before the world, as having placed themselves on the uncompromising position of demanding from Great Britain, the territory of Oregon, up to the highest degree of North latitude, heretofore claimed by us.

The fact is that Mr. Polk stood in a very precarious attitude with his Party, on this very point of the Oregon controversy. The Baltimore Convention, as Mr. Hannegan justly observed, had, in connection with the nominations of Polk and Dallas, also hoisted the Party banner with the inscription of "Texas and Oregon;" and on this Party cry, the elections were conducted. The Loco Foco Southerners, in very fact did desire to obtain the annexation of Texas, in order to turn the representative balance in Congress, on their own side; but the same motive, which led them to seek the acquisition of Texas, would make them unwilling to push matters to an extreme with Great Britain in the conflicting questions concerning Oregon. Their own exposure, to the inroads and devastations of hostile forces, in the new mode of warfare, which England might adopt against the South, in case of a national rupture, increased the unwillingness of the Southern friends of Mr. Polk, to incur such hazards. Yet what was to be done by them? It would not do for them quietly to yield up Oregon; for the intelligent presses in our Country, had always charged against the Southern Polk men, that their party-cry about Oregon, was a mere trick, a feint to cajole the North and West, and obtain the votes of the people by misrepresentation.

In addition to this, the elections of 1843, were to be provided for. Thus the Southern Regency perceived, that they had a difficult task to accomplish, in a threefold manœuvre, which may have been designed to save their own reputation for consistency in the party-cry for Oregon, and yet to compromise with Great Britain and avoid a war, and at the same time to assume a vantage ground with the people, which might enable the South to carry on the political canvass in 1843 with renewed popularity and vigor, and to throw upon the Whigs the false charge of having defeated the public wish by overruling the War measures of the Patriot Polk.

Now, mark how cunningly this scheme may have been set on foot, and made to commence its first practical operations. The Message of President Polk contains two prominent points,—the Free Trade policy, (for his notion of a revenue duty virtually amounts to that)—and the uncompromising claim to the whole of Oregon. The latter is offensive to Great Britain; but the former is more congenial to the wishes and interests of that Empire, than any thing which could have been offered, next to the return of our country to a colonial dependency. In the meantime, the Southern members, who had advocated the admission of Texas, divide themselves into two portions: one part declare for peace and the 49th degree of north latitude by way of compromise; the other and the larger portion, talk of Oregon, war or no war, and insist upon an immediate notice to terminate what is called the joint occupancy. While these movements are going on, the party presses of the Locos, headed by the "Union," insinuate and propagate a public suspicion, in order to prepare the popular mind for believing, that the Whigs, aided by a few recusant Democrats, are endeavoring to thwart the Oregon measures of President Polk; and that if a compromise be made, it would be a concession forced upon the administration by the peace policy of the opposition, and not in accordance with the original and predetermined intentions of Mr. Polk and his Cabinet. Even if conciliatory measures fail in the House, yet, in the Senate, any offensive resolutions transmitted from the House, might be suspended until the effect of the anti-Tariff policy of President Polk should induce a better state of feeling in England, and eventually prepare the two countries for an adjustment of their difficulties by compromise, or lead to a still longer delay of the question of right.

We do not say that these conjectures concerning the schemes of the Polk Administration, are correct; we think however that they are not without probability. That sagacious and experienced Statesman, Mr. Adams, seems to have acted on a supposition that such were the motives of Mr. Polk and his peculiar friends. Mr. Adams has openly charged the administration, with what virtually, amounts to duplicity. He does not think that they really meditate the urging of our rights to Oregon, at the hazard of a War. They would back out sooner. He does not think that they were in earnest even in the offer to terminate joint the occupancy, (as it has been called) by a notice. He has trampled upon their professions, and upon what he considers their mere party and selfish jugglery, and has, unexpectedly, forced them into a position, which, most probably is as foreign from their real wishes, as it was remote from their anticipations or thoughts.

The suspicions of Mr. Adams, in regard to the sincerity of the peculiar friends of Texas, on the measures in relation to Oregon, appear to be shared also by some of the candid Locos from the West; who, altho' they apprehend that there is really an effort to strangle Oregon, may not be acquainted with the actual extent of the arts which are in progress to deceive the well-meaning members of their party.

But time will soon develope these things in such a manner, that all may have it in their power to form a correct opinion about them.

The Sunbeam.

An erroneous impression has gone abroad, that this paper had been discontinued. By the annexed, which we copy from the last number, published on Friday, it will be seen that it is suspended but temporarily, from the absolute inability of the publisher to get it out.

Its publication will be resumed as soon as the circumstances of the office will permit.

We understand that an effort is now being made by some friends of the "SUNBEAM," to place it upon a permanent and lasting foundation.

The numbers which have appeared, should not be regarded by the public as fair specimens of what it will be.

TO OUR PATRONS.—Owing to the indisposition of Mr. Riddle and Mr. Kaine, my services in the Journal Office are so constantly required, that I cannot now obtain time to attend to the publication of the Sunbeam, in the manner I desire. I am constrained, therefore, to announce the discontinuance of the paper, until further notice.

January 9th, 1846. JAMES D. THORNBURGH.

TO THE PUBLIC.

After seeing a statement in the Post, respecting the robbery of my office, I feel it due to Mayor Howard and myself, to let the public know all the facts concerning it. Wm. B. Mowry called and told me Mayor Howard wanted to see me, but could not say exactly what he wanted me for, but for something concerning the robbery of my office. I immediately called to see him; he told me that Mr. Hague had received intelligence that two or three persons had laid a plan to rob my office, but could not say at what time, nor was he sure that it could be relied on, coming from the source it did, but advised me to remove what money I might have in the safe. I told him I never left any money in it at night; he also requested me to call when I was over in the City, and if he got any more particulars he would let me know. I very kindly thanked him; he said he was at all times ready and willing to communicate any thing to detect thieves, or something to that purpose. That is all that passed as near as I can recollect. Nothing was said about not communicating it to the Allegheny Police. I set a silent watch, but there being no money that they could get, and not certain of the validity of it, I made myself easy. THOS. H. STEWART.

Mayoralty Elections.

The elections for Mayors, in the two Cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, take place next Tuesday. We hope that the Whigs will not forget that day, as they did the time of election for Overseers of the Poor and Auditors.

We call attention to the note of Thos. H. Stewart addressed to the public, and extracted from the Post of Saturday last. The qualifications of Mr. Howard for the office have been tested and approved; and the vile calumny against him, as unfounded as malicious, which was designed to injure him, will have the effect of calling out for his support every voter, friendly to the cause of truth and justice. It would be shameful, after this malignant attempt of our opponents to injure the fair name of our candidate, to permit the day to pass by, without recording a heavy and astounding majority against the traducers.

Mr. Cassat is well known, and his intelligence and integrity need no comment. Our friends of Allegheny, will be sure not to leave their work undone to-morrow.

The office of Mayor is of high importance; and it gives us pleasure to have in nomination by our Party, candidates who unite official qualifications, with integrity and unblemished character.

Our friends will also remember the whole of the tickets for Select and Common Councils. Let us come to the work manfully; for there is not a single office to be voted for, which is unimportant in the affairs of the Cities, and not a single candidate in nomination for the offices, who has not been placed upon the ticket, under circumstances to insure him the cordial and united support of the entire party.

Mrs. Abby Foster.

This lady, for the last few days, has been holding meetings in Allegheny and in Pittsburgh. Her meetings, we are informed, have been very crowded; and in some instances, especially yesterday, they were so full, that the audience was packed together, as if an attempt had been made to ascertain how many human bodies, with the closest possible stowage, could be jammed together in one building. Persons of all persuasions and parties went to hear her, and we have not had information of any indecorum or disorder committed at her meetings. When it is remembered that she is not only anti-church, but anti-Union, and handles without mercy the fathers of the federal constitution, and their children, in short, all who are not come-outers, and anti-government persons like herself, we cannot help congratulating the two cities on this evidence of good order and regard for the laws, which their abstinence from all tumult or violation of a peaceful deportment indicates. Five years ago, things would not have passed off so quietly.

Who will say after this, that our citizens are not advancing in that high-minded and intelligent spirit, which regards a mob or an unlawful violence even against offensive doctrines, as an injury to the majesty of the sovereign people themselves! We rejoice in this indication of an improving public intelligence and integrity. In regard to the qualifications of the lady as a speaker, we understand they are of a high order, as indeed is presumable, from the fact of her drawing and retaining such large audiences. Much as we differ from her opinions, we are not sorry that her coming among us, has presented an opportunity for Pittsburgh and Allegheny, to exhibit an example of their propriety and sense of good order, in the manner that we have mentioned.

Death of Hon Chas. McClure.

With deep regret, we announce the decease of the Hon. Charles McClure, formerly Secretary of State of this Commonwealth, under Governor Porter.

He died at his lodgings in Allegheny City, as we are informed, of Apoplexy. He was alone at his death; and when his body was discovered, on the morning of the 10th inst., life was entirely extinguished.

Mr. McClure was a person in whom talents of a high order, were united with the most benevolent and gentlemanly traits of character; and he has left an extensive circle of friends and relatives to mourn his untimely departure.

The Christian Union,

Met in Allegheny Hall on Sunday; a lecture was delivered by Mr. Van Amringe, and remarks, by others, upon the importance of sustaining the Society. We understand that the Christian Union will meet next Sunday morning at the same place.

☞ While the responsible editor of the Journal is kept in his room by indisposition, we feel at liberty to copy the annexed from the Louisville Ledger. It is indeed gratifying that his efforts to make the most attractive paper in this city have been crowned with success.

From the Louisville Public Ledger.

PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL JOURNAL.—We regard the Commercial Journal as one of the best journals of the day. And we are pleased to observe its growing popularity. It is now one of the most respectable (in size) of the class, ycleept, six pennies. According to the doctrines of the Louisville Journal, it will live and be entitled to the Post Office printing. In typography, and in its editorials, it holds a rank inferior to none. The editor is a little Whiggish, and goes it pretty strong for "protection to iron"—and he is right. Old Pennsylvania is safe so long as she can wear her "iron mask." The spear of Ithurial, in the hands of a Chief more mighty than the present incumbent of the throne, was hurled at her vitals in vain. The editor now stands up manfully in behalf of the same great interest, and has drawn around him a powerful support from the friends of an administration, which, he occasionally raps hard over the knuckles.

The Journal is just independent enough to think for itself—and it dares to speak its sentiments.

THAT IS A FACT.—The Wheeling Argus says:—The new Wire suspension bridge, across the Monongahela, at Pittsburgh, is so nearly completed as to admit foot passengers to cross, on Tuesday last. They do things right in Pittsburgh.

☞ We are indebted to Messrs George Darsie, McCurdy, Hilands and the Democratic Union for extras containing the Governor's Message.

☞ We are indebted to the Hon. C. Darragh for valuable public documents.

Bar Meeting.

At a meeting of the members of the Pittsburgh Bar, held in the room of the Court of Common Pleas, on the announcement of the death of the Hon. Charles McClure, late a member of this Bar, on motion of the Hon. Charles Shaler, the Hon. Benjamin Patton, Jr., was called to the Chair, and C. S. Eyster and Geo. W. Layng, Esqrs., were appointed Secretaries.

Upon motion of Charles Shaler, Esq., it was resolved that a Committee, to consist of three members of the Bar, be appointed to draft resolutions suitable to the present melancholy occasion.

The Chair appointed Charles Shaler, A. W. Loomis, and Henry Magraw, Esqrs., who, thro' their Chairman, reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is with sincere regret we have learned the melancholy and sudden death of the Hon. Charles M'Clure, late member in Congress from Cumberland county, Pa., and late Secretary of the Commonwealth, a gentleman who, though he had recently come amongst us, had endeared himself to the society at large, and the Bar in particular, by the amenity of his manners, and the amiability of his deportment, and who bid fair to acquire a practice in the profession honorable to himself and gratifying to his friends.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with his family on account of a loss as unexpected as it is irreparable.

Resolved, That as a mark of our respect for the deceased, we will wear the usual badge of mourning on the left arm for thirty days.

Resolved, That the judges and officers of the Court and members of the bar be requested to attend the funeral of the deceased in a body.

Resolved, That the Chairman of this meeting be requested to present a copy of these resolutions to the family of the deceased, and to address to them a letter suitable to the melancholy occasion.

Resolved, That the Courts of this county be requested to enter upon their minutes the proceeding of this meeting.

The Baltimore American.

Our compendation of the Baltimore American is not required, as its worth is known and appreciated; but we feel compelled by our strong sense of the value of that excellent paper, to express the pleasure with which we always turn to its columns. It is edited and conducted with the highest ability and judgment; its typographical appearance and its correctness cannot be surpassed; and the valuable information contained in it, upon all subjects to which it applies its attention, render it among the most instructive journals that we have. We are pleased that its merits are sustained by the patronage of the public.

The Tickets.

We have been at some pains to collect for this day's paper, the entire Whig and Antimasonic tickets for the six wards of the city, to be voted for tomorrow. If there are errors or omissions, we beg our Whig friends to point them out, that we may be certainly correct. Indisposition alone has prevented us from obtaining this information directly from the ward meetings.

Losses by Fires in 1845.

The Philadelphia Chronicle states, that in the year 1845, will probably be designated as the "Great Fire Year" they have prepared a record of all the fires in the United States, Canada and West Indies, from 31st December, 1844 to January 1, 1846. The losses amount altogether "to the enormous sum of twenty seven millions eight hundred and twenty five thousand eight hundred and fifty dollars.

Emphatically "on his own Hook."

The Boston Post tells a story of a seafaring friend of his. Being in a place where pickpockets abounded, he lined his pockets with fish hooks, ingeniously arranged so as to catch and hold the hand of any intruder; and it worked to a charm, for it caught his own hand, and tore all the flesh from his own fingers, in less than an hour after he had set the trap to catch a rogue!

From Mexico.

By accounts from Vera Cruz to the 14th Dec., received at New York, it appears that the rumored revolt of General Parades and his army, was without foundation. The new American Minister, Mr. Slidell, had arrived at Vera Cruz. A letter from that city of the 10th Dec., states that there was then nothing new, but an outbreak was apprehended.

The Tariff—The Attack.

It will be seen by our report of Congressional proceedings on Friday, that notice is given to the House of Representatives, that a bill will be introduced "Repealing the Tariff act of 1842!" Where are these Democratic gentlemen who deluded our people into the hope that Polk and Dallas were friends of Protection, and of the Tariff of 1842? Stand forth, Democratic champions of Protection.

Legislative.

In the House of Representatives to-day, Wm. Jack was re-elected Clerk. Mr. Herd, Sergeant-at-arms. Andrew Krause, Doorkeeper.

The Governor's Message was read at 12 o'clock. Mr. Magehan took occasion to dissent from the doctrines of the Executive on the Tariff, in a speech of great severity, but which we have no room to notice.

Mr. Kunkle introduced a series of resolutions asserting the title of the United States to the whole of Oregon, and instructing our Senators and members of Congress, to vote for giving notice to Great Britain of our intention to end negotiations on the subject.

The Senate made nominations for Clerks, &c., but did not elect.—Harrisburgh Intel.

Don't Forget.

The election for Mayor, Select and Common Councils comes off to-morrow.

☞ The alarm of fire on Sunday afternoon was raised at Temperance Hall, by some rowdy boys outside the house. A very appropriate place for fire Engines.

☞ The last of the old walls, the remnant of the Great Fire, was pulled down on Saturday. If our earnest advice had been taken some months ago, there would have been no lives lost.

☞ The citizens of the Sixth Ward, could employ our energetic Street Commissioner for at least one week.

☞ Some of our firemen had a small jollification among themselves on Saturday night. There were two or three false alarms, a great deal of noise, but no fighting. All this was done on account of 'Porter.'

☞ The horse Ferry, above the Monongahela bridge, has been discontinued since the new bridge has gone into operation. The steam Ferry to Birmingham still continues, and is doing a good business.

☞ The Ice above the dam had not given way last evening, so that navigation to Brownsville is still suspended.

☞ The Ice has nearly all run out of the Allegheny.

☞ A number of Coal boats left on Saturday for Cincinnati and Louisville. They will be welcome visiters to our neighbors below.

☞ A member of the Duquesne Engine, had one of his fingers cut off while engaged in fixing the apparatus on Friday last.

☞ The new steam Ferry boat, building at the Point, is nearly completed. She is intended to run from Manchester to Saw Mill run.

☞ Ninety-nine out of every hundred of the fortunes which have been amassed within the space of a very few years, in regular business pursuits, may be ascribed to the power of the press. It is the means of disseminating information throughout the country, and attracting customers from all quarters.

☞ We have ascertained that our correspondent, "First Ward," in asserting that Mr. S. F. Von Bonhorst, was a recipient of the Relief Fund, stated what is not the fact, Mr. V. B. neither applied for, or received one cent of the aforesaid fund. It is proper for us to say that we received the communication referred to through the medium of the Post Office, and in the publication of it relaxed our rules so far as to give it a place without knowing the name of the author.—Post of Saturday last.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 9, 1846.

GENTLEMEN:—Having noticed an article in the Pittsburg Post of this morning signed "First Ward" stating that I was a large recipient of the Relief Fund, I ask you wherein I was either directly or indirectly an applicant for, or recipient of, any portion of said fund; also please to state whether Mr. Wm. Eichbaum, my partner in business, was an applicant or recipient.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
S. F. VON BONHORST.

To Messrs. Thomas Bakewell, Morgan Robertson, Robert Porter, and Warrick Martin, Distributing Committee.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 9, 1846.

Mr. S. F. Von Bonhorst—In reply to your note of this day, we state that neither yourself individually, nor your associate Wm. Eichbaum, Esq., nor any person on your account, or on his, has received any portion of the relief fund; and further, that the name of your firm having been inserted in the register by the assessors, was at your request withdrawn previous to the declaration of any dividend by the committee.

Very respectfully,
THOMAS BAKEWELL,
MORGAN ROBERTSON,
WARRICK MARTIN,
ROBERT PORTER.

Cheap Postage.

On the 19th December, resolutions passed the lower House of the Ohio Legislature, unanimously, instructing their Senators, and requesting their Representatives in Congress, to oppose all attempts to increase the present rates of postage. We have not since heard what reception the resolutions met with in the Ohio Senate; doubtless, if they have not already passed, they will pass with unanimity.

In Ohio, as in Pennsylvania, the people are unanimous in favor of trying the cheap postage system.

We look for the introduction into our own Legislature, at an early day, of resolutions instructing our Senators, as that is the doctrine of Democracy, and requesting our Representatives in Congress to resist all attempts to increase the present rates of Postage. They are now far too high.

Great Fire at Concord, N. H.,---$60,000 Worth of Property Destroyed.

A slip from the Patriot office, Concord, gives the particulars of an extensive fire which broke out on Tuesday in the frame building at the depot of the Concord Railroad Co., occupied by Messrs. Gilmore & Clapp, for their extensive wholesale Grocery establishment, and by the Railroad Company, as a car house which, with almost all the contents, was reduced to a heap of ruins.

The building contained an immense amount of W. L. goods and groceries, comprising a large quantity of flour, lime, oil, plaster, pork, fish, iron, &c. &c., besides four valuable passenger cars and three baggage cars, belonging to the railroad, nearly all of which is destroyed, or so much injured as to be almost a total loss.

Messrs. Gilmore & Clapp had recently finished taking an account of their stock, which they valued at $56,000. On this $10,000 was insured at the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., and $15,000 in the Manufacturers, Firemen's and National Insurance Co., in Boston—$5000 in each. The Railroad company have lost $10,000—including the building worth $4,000 or $5000, and cars worth $6,000, on which there is said to be no insurance. The total loss will doubtless reach $66,000.

The Navy.

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Enquirer refers to some new arrangements in the Navy, and says:

"I understand that the Secretary of the Navy has declared that he does not intend to be governed, as heretofore was the custom, by seniority of date, in nominating officers for promotion. That is if he is not satisfied that the officer, whose turn it shall be for promotion, is better qualified and more deserving than his juniors, he will seek among them for the candidate for increased rank. Thus all Naval officers who may be promoted during his administration of the department, who are in turn or out of turn, are to be considered as being in his estimation, personally and professionally more deserving than their compeers. If he can always avail himself of reliable and full of information upon which to base his judgement, the new plan will doubtless work well, if not, however, it must work badly."

In alluding to this subject some days ago, we referred to the danger of political influence and interposition in the affairs of the Navy, if promotions were left to the discretion of the Secretary. It is the belief of some that this danger would not be so great as is apprehended, because of the fact that the characteristics and qualities of officers become so well known in the service as to render it hazardous for any Secretary to pass over real merit, or to advance unworthy favorites.

The Dignity of Congress.

The sage, grave men of the national House of Representatives must be a jolly set of gentlemen a "If you tickle them will they not laugh?" And the smallest straw is sufficient for the operation.—In reading the debates we are struck with an interjectional "(laughter,)" "(increased merriment,)" "(roars of laughter,)" in every paragraph. Having missed the joke, we re-peruse the report with the special object of discovering where the wit lies. Nothing facetious appears—all is grave and earnest—and the ignorant reader, at a distance, accuses himself of a dulness in the organ of mirthfulness. Yet one might suppose that the discussion of a subject like war, upon which hangs the fate of millions, was not so very funny in itself, nor that the time and place were provocatives to mirth.—Where the mystery lies we cannot tell. It cannot be, of course, that the real prompter of this interruption of members by the jocund roars of the club room is Bacchus; or that they are to be ascribed to the idiocy that laughs for the want of thought.

There is certainly little wit and less decorum in making such a subject the theme of unprovoked and senseless merriment.

☞ A Bill is now before the lower house of the Virginia Legislature for the incorporation of a company for the construction of a rail road from Richmond to the Ohio river. Its leading provisions, according to the Richmond Enquirer, are as follows:

"It proposes to authorize the Company to construct a road from Richmond, on the South side of James River, to the Ohio River, "by the most eligible route other than the immediate valley of the James River, below Lynchburg," provided, that the restruction to the valley of James River "shall not be construed so as to prevent the road from crossing James River so as not to interfere with the James River Canal." The capital of the Company is to be $12,000,000, of which the Board of Public Works is authorized to take two-fifths or less. As soon as $3,000,000 of the capital shall have been subscribed, and one million actually paid in, the remaining two millions having been fully secured to be paid in, the Company shall be invested with corporate powers.

One of the sections of the bill authorizes the Company to expend two millions of their capital stock "for the general purpose of buying, settling and improving unsettled and waste lands West of the Blue Ridge in this State, and for the establishment and carrying on of manufactories of iron, wool, flour, cotton, and such other purposes as the said Company may elect, except banking."

☞ Another large and enthusiastic meeting of the Philadelphia Repeal Association took place on Monday evening in the Lecture Room of the Chinese Museum. The meeting was organized by the President, Robert Tyler, Esq., taking the Chair. During the progress of the meeting patriotic and eloquent addresses were delivered by the President, Mr. Collins, Mr. Sweeny and Col. Dickson. Resolutions were passed of the most patriotic kind—every word manifested the strongest attachment for the United States, her laws, and her political welfare. There was over fifty dollars collected during the evening, and some thirty or forty additional members elected.—Philad. Ledger.

☞ Capt. Ryders says that he "scorns to listen to a Whig orator." We believe he listened to the pillory once. At any rate, it had his ear.—Louisville Journal.

Twenty-ninth Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

Correspondence of the Baltimore American.

WASHINGTON, Jan'y 8.

U. S. SENATE.

The bill to raise a regiment of mounted riflemen and for establishing military stations on the route to Oregon, was read a third time and passed.

The joint resolution "regulating the printing of Congress, and establishing the compensation for the same" was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Allen, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, to which had been referred the joint resolution heretofore offered by him, advising the President of the United States, to give notice to Great Britain of the termination of the treaty of joint occupancy, reported as follows.

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled That in virtue of the second article of the Convention of the 6th August 1827, between the United States and Great Britain, relative to the country westward of the Stony or Rocky Mountains, that the United States do now think fit to annul and abrogate that convention, and that the said Convention is hereby accordingly annulled and abrogated—Provided that this Resolution shall take effect after the term of twelve months from the day on which due notice shall be given to Great Britain of the passage of this resolution; and the President of the United States is hereby authorised and required to give said notice, and also at the expiration of said Convention to issue his proclamation setting forth the fact.

Mr. Allen said he would move to take up the resolution on Monday next, with a view to have an early day fixed for its consideration. He did not press its consideration earlier, in deference to an honorable Senator who had informed him that he wished a preliminary question first to be disposed of.

Mr. Allen, from the same Committee, offered a resolution directing the Secretary of the Senate to procure and place in the room of said Committee, a set of globes, maps and such books as the Committee may direct, provided the expense does not exceed $500.—The resolution was adopted.

The Senate then went into Executive Session, and after a short time spent therein, adjourned over until Monday next.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Bill from the Senate restoring the office of Inspector General was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs and passed. The bill for appointing a Company of Sappers and Miners was reported and about to be passed, when Mr. McKay moved its reference to the Committee of the whole House. Mr. Brinckerhoff advocated its passage at this time, but the rule required its reference, and it was referred accordingly.

Mr. Jones of Tenn. made a speech upon Retrenchment and Reform—partaking more of a party character than to any question before the House. The bill under consideration was a Private Pension Bill, and quite a party debate arose upon it, between Messrs. Jones and Cook of Tenn., and Mr. Giddings of Ohio. The bill was finally referred to the Committee of the Whole.

APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Mr. McKay, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported the following annual appropriation bills:

The Fortification Bill for 1846, '47—the Indian Appropriation Bill for 1846, '47—the Army Bill—the Civil and Diplomatic Bill—the Naval Appropriation Bill—and all those bills for the fiscal year from July, 1846 to July, 1847.

Mr. Ingersoll reported a bill for the payment of evidences of Public Debt in certain cases.

All of the above bills were from the Committee on Ways and Means, and were reported to the Committee of the Whole.

The Cumberland Road Bill, making appropriations for continuing the road in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, was also reported with a large number of private bills.

At half past one the House went into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

OREGON QUESTION—RESOLUTION FOR THE NOTICE.

Mr. Colub of Ga. addressed the House in opposition to the views sustained by the Southern men of his own party. He did not concur with Mr. Calhoun. He believed our title to the whole of Oregon was a good one; that the question was a national one; as much so as the annexation of Texas. The negotiations had reached a crisis.

We were advised by the President to give the notice, and he wished now to direct the House to what would be the effect of not giving the notice. Should we not be placed in the position of receiving a recommendation from the President to give the notice and of declining to act upon the recommendation? The effect of placing Congress in opposition to the Executive would be disastrous to our claim in Great Britain. British Statesmen would see our position and take advantage of it.

We had received the ultimatum of Great Britain, and she had received ours, and as our claim was good and her's a bad one, some new mode must be reached to settle the question. We weakened our claim if we did not give the notice, and regardless of consequences, he was for giving that at once.

Mr. Cobb remediated the idea that we should be compelled to give up any portion of the Oregon if we went to war with England. Not a Briton would be left upon our soil if we engaged in a struggle with England. She would not come out of such a struggle with safety if we entered into a contest for our territory.

We might suffer by war, but we would never make peace while there was a British flag upon any portion of the soil consecrated to American freedom. He was for doing his duty come what might, and for sustaining the Executive in giving the notice at once.

Mr. McClernand followed in favor of the whole of Oregon, and with a speech accompanied by maps and statistics illustrating the importance to us of the whole of the territory.

Amidst some forty competitors, the floor was given to Mr. Giles, of Md. and at half past three the Committee rose and the House adjourned

From the Baltimore Sun.

WASHINGTON, Jan'y, 9, 1846.

The Senate did not sit to-day.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Truman Smith wanted to introduce a resolution, providing that the names of all gentlemen who have not spoken on the Oregon question shall be arranged by the Chair, so as to prevent the shouting and scramble for the floor which yesterday made the House resemble a menagerie.

Objection being made, a motion was made to suspend the rules, but without success.

Mr. Brown offered a series of resolutions requiring the Committee on post offices to inquire and report as to whether the Postmaster General has not placed a false construction upon the law in issuing his order to charge franked letters that have not been written on official business.

Objection being made, a motion was made to suspend the rules, but it was negatived.

A bill was introduced to extend the Cumberland road through the western States. Also, a bill to establish a national foundry. They were twice read and referred to a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. McConnel gave notice of a bill to repeal the tariff act of 1842.

Mr. Bowlin introduced a bill to organize the territorial Government of Oregon. It was twice read and referred to the committee on territories. With one or two slight amendments, it is the same as the bill which passed the House last session.

Notice was given of a bill to abolish public executions and custom house oaths.

Mr. Culner gave notice of a bill to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia.

After the disposal of a great mass of miscellaneous business, the House went into a committee of the whole and resumed the consideration of the joint resolution from the committee on foreign affairs, giving the Oregon notice to the Great Britain.

(Before the committee commenced operations, Mr. McConnel gave notice that on some future day he will bring in a bill to give every white man 160 acres of land if he will work it.

Mr. Giles then took the floor. He commenced by making some eloquent remarks on the great importance of the Oregon question. It was a question which interested every civilized man. It was no wonder then that an interest should be excited in the House, and that beauty should forsake its wonted walks, for the purpose of attending to smile upon our councils. He passed a high compliment to Mr. Adams, and said he was glad to see that although the snows of seventy winters had fallen upon him, yet the fires of patriotism still glowed upon their ancient altar. He also eulogized the present Secretary of State, and after noticing the able manner in which the negotiation had been conducted, he said if war did come, it would be ours to say,

"Thricels he armed who hath his quarrel just."

After further introductory remarks, he went into the merits of the case, and advocated the resolution. He then went on to show that a war would emancipate us from the manufacturing thraldom of Great Britain. In his opinion it was the knowledge that a war with us would deprive her of one of her best customers, that alone had kept her in a peaceful attitude hitherto. He contended that the time had now arrived when the joint occupation ought to cease. He advocated the immediate passage of a bill for the protection of our citizens in Oregon.

He was in favor of giving the notice, because it was our duty to organize a territorial government in Oregon, and unless the joint occupancy should cease, it would be impossible to give that efficient aid to which they were entitled. The British had established a permanent government there, and it was our duty to do so likewise. It would be impossible to do justice to so eloquent a speech in a brief sketch.

The House then adjourned.

Clippings.

☞ The Minerva, Capt. Smyth Crocker, a whale ship, reported that they had lost a boat with first officer and five men, carried down by a whale. Fortunately, the barque Quebec, from Plymouth, picked up the boat and men and brought them safe into St. John, N. B.

☞ Letters have been received at New Orleans via Havana, which states that advices had arrived from Vera Cruz, to the purport that General Paredes had proclaimed against the existing government, and was marching against the City of Mexico, at the head of 10,000 troops. Passengers from Havana who arrived at New Orleans, confirmed the above.

☞ A young girl about twelve years age, was accidentally killed at Bridgewater, Mass., on Sunday last, by her brother. He took up the gun, supposing it to be unloaded, aimed and discharged it at her. She lived but a few moments, only uttering the exclamation, "O! you have shot me."

☞ Last year the Ohio Penitentiary yielded a revenue of $1325.

☞ The New York Evening Gazette, one of the most spirited literary papers of the city has received an accession to its editorial strength by the association of Richard Grant White, Esq. Independent in its course, and polished in its tone, we sincerely wish the Gazette every success.

☞ A New York Jury has found Patrick Campbell guilty of Manslaughter. It will be remembered that Campbell was arrested for having murdered Patrick Cogan.

☞ Judge David Johnson has been nominated for Governor of South Carolina by the Democratic party.

☞ The Small Pox has made its appearance in St. Mary's County, Md.

☞ We see it stated that Texas is divided into 35 counties. Galveston is the largest city, and Houston the next, Austin, the seat of government has a population of 1500, and Washington about the same number. Saint Antonia is the oldest town in the State, with a population of 1500.

☞ The Ward Convention lately held at Baltimore, to provide for the necessities of the poor, raised and distributed the handsome sum of $2200.

☞ A country editor tells his subscribers that he has been compelled to adopt the cash system, but will continue to receive potatoes at par.

A BROADWAY BELLE.—Park Benjamin says the ladies of New York city dress with more reference to show than taste, and that the instinctive exclamation of a stranger is rather, "how much did she cost!" than how "lovely she is!"

SHIPWRECKS.—During the past year 39 vessels, bound to or from Quebec, have been lost. Out of that number we are pleased to find that the loss of lives have been comparatively few.

A BOSTON CLERGYMAN, who performed the marriage ceremony, on the 30th ult., received for his trouble a counterfeit $10 bill from the liberal bridegroom.

The income of the Western (Mass.) Railroad in the year ending December 31, 1845, from all sources, is estimated at $310,000 The expenses of the same period, not including interest and sinking fund, amounted to $365,000.

The New York Tribune of Wednesday says—It is understood that the recent fluctuations in stocks have taken two of the leading Boston brokers off their feet.

RIVER NEWS.

REPORTED FOR THE COMMERCIAL JOURNAL.
JANUARY 11, 1845

ARRIVED.
Harlem, Carothers, Wellsville.
Belmont, Wilkins, Wheeling.
Cleveland, Calhoun, Wellsville.

DEPARTED.
Columbia, Neal, Louisville.
Acadia, Lucas, Louisville.

☞ 1½ feet water in the channel and falling.

☞ See advertisement in another column.

IMPORTS BY THE RIVER.

WELLSVILLE—Per Cleveland—3 carboys, alcohol, 1 bbl lard, 1 bbl butter, 81 bbls flour, 12 bbls poultry, 1 box do, 2541 pcs bulk pork, 5 bundles leather.

☞ Last evening at dark, there were 7 feet 6 inches water in the channel, and falling slowly.—The steamers Acadia and Columbia, left on Saturday for Louisville with full loads.

☞ Capt. Tyler's boat, intended for a regular packet between this city and Wellsville, was launched at that place on Saturday. She will be completed at our landing.

☞ Capt. Ebbert is building a boat, intended for the Wheeling trade.

☞ Capt. Calhoun's new boat for the Wellsville trade, will be launched at Freedom in a few days.

☞ The steamers Hibernia and West Point left Cincinnati for this city on Wednesday.

☞ The steamer Alhambra arrived at Cincinnati on Tuesday, with a full load of Sugar and Molasses for this market.

☞ The steamer Messenger was advertised to leave Cincinnati for New Orleans on the 9th.

☞ The steamer North Queen, Capt. McLain, leaves to-day for Cincinnati.

☞ At St. Louis on the 2d and 3d, moderate weather and a fall of rain cleared the ice from the river opposite the city. The Republican notices reports that the river was free of ice as high up as Jefferson Barracks, 12 miles below St. Louis. A general break up was looked for.

☞ The Cincinnati Enquirer seems disposed to persist in its erroneous statement with regard to the steamers Palestine and Wisconsin, after we had given that paper correct information. Its attempt to be severe, is undeserving notice, and shall not have reply. Its reiteration of misinformation is in equally bad taste. The Palestine, which the Enquirer stated was "cut in two by ice," one part floating off, while the other could not be approached, arrived safely at New Orleans about the time the Enquirer announced her destruction. The Winsconsin, which was by the same veracious authority, reported sunk, was at the time lying snugly at Steubenville, and her commander, who is sitting in our office as we write this, informs us that she never was sunk.

☞ The steamers North America, Yorktown, Star Spangled Banner, Albatros, George Washington, and El Dorado, advertise to leave for New Orleans on Thursday.

Shipments to Pittsburgh from Cincinnati, January 9th.

By the Circassian: 20 hhds sugar, 150 bbls molasses, 75 do whiskey, 75 do salt, 100 bags coffee, 100 kegs lard.

By the James Ross: 13 hhds sugar, 140 bbls molasses; 150 do whiskey, 80 do fish, 5 tcs codfish, 5 tons sundries.

By the Hibernia: 6 hhds sugar, 10 bhls loaf do, 30 do molasses, 36 do whiskey, 27 bxs starch, 10 do candles, 5 bales cotton, 3 tons sundries.

By the West Point; 10 hhds bacon, 10 do and 2 bbls sugar, 36 do molasses, 30 do liquor, ½ pipe brandy, 3 casks saleratus, 79 bxs candles, 30 do soap, 10 do raisins.

Mutiny.

The Cincinnati Atlas says: The steamer Alhambra, from New Orleans, reports that a mutiny occurred on board the Julia Clotean at Mills Point, a few days since, which resulted in the death of three of the deck hands. No particulars.

☞ The Louisville Journal of the 6th says: The river is low and covered with floating ice, which renders navigation very difficult. The mail-boat, which left Cincinnati on Saturday evening, did not arrive until dark last evening. There was 4 feet 9 inches water in the canal last evening and about on a stand. The Diana reports the river rising below and 5½ feet on the bars, but it is thought that this rise is occasioned by the breaking of the gorges.

☞ We learn from a letter that was received in this city, a few days ago, that the steamer Herald was at Cape Girardeau, waiting for a rise in the river, to proceed to St. Louis.

☞ The Nashville Orthopolitan of the 3d, says: The river rose last night about 2 feet and still rising. The Commerce came up this morning from Smithland, and reports the Ohio full of floating ice.

☞ The Wheeling Argus of 10th says: The river is still rising; and now we find 12 feet water in the channel. Much is ice still running, yet that from the Monongahela and Allegheny had not passed; we should judge.

☞ North Carolina has been fortunate. Immense quantities of rain had fallen at Wilmington, N. C., previous to the 9th; a rise in creeks and rivers was the consequence, and lumber and naval stores were pouring down. It was estimated by gentlemen conversant with the business of the place, that there has been $150,000 to $200,000 paid for timber and turpentine alone, within the fortnight.

☞ The Little Rock Gazette of the 22d of December says:—The river has risen since our last, about eighteen inches, but is now falling, with two and a half feet water in the channel. The steamer Ocilla, Captain Timms, arrived at our wharf on Saturday, and left again yesterday for same point.

The New Castle arrived here yesterday, from Van Buren, and leaves again to day, for the same place.

☞ A heavy gorge of ice is reported, in Wheeling creek, a few miles from this extending some distance, and several feet thick. We fear for the safety of the dams, in the creek.—Wheeling Argus.

Loss of the Belle Zane.

The following card has been handed us for publication. It gives, we believe, additional particulars in relation to the loss of the ill-fated steamboat Belle Zane.—N; O. Pic.

At a meeting of the passengers of the steamboat Belle Zaine, at Napoleon, Arkansas, on the 22d of December, the Rev. Dr. Archibald Maclay, of New York, was called to the chair, and Thomas Clyde, Esq., of Wilmington, Delaware, was appointed secretary.

The Belle Zane was snagged on the morning of the 19th, at 1 o'clock, about five miles below the mouth of White River, and immediately filled and turned over on her beam ends. Nearly all of her passengers, were asleep, and the sinking of the boat was so sudden that there was no time to save anything. Parts of the boat floated about ten miles. Three of the crew got on shore, and procured a boat and saved all that were alive on different portions of the wreck.

Some idea may be formed of the sufferings of the passengers, from the fact, that of five who started for the shore on a part of the deck, three froze to death before reaching it. From the best information that could be obtained, there were one hundred and twenty-five persons on board, and of that number about sixty-four reached the shore, four of whom froze to death.

Resolved, That the thanks of the passengers are due for the hospitable and kind manner they were treated by the citizens of Napoleon, who furnished all who were destitute of clothing, and administered to their wants.

Resolved, That the captain, officers and hands of the boat deserve the thanks of the passengers for using the most strenuous exertions for the preservation of the lives of the passengers on the wreck.
